Martyn Filsak leading a Prayer Meeting, all are welcome

Acts 2:1–21 The Holy Spirit poured out for all On the day of the Jewish festival of Pentecost, Jesus' disciples experience being filled dramatically with God's Holy Spirit. This power and life spills out into the whole of creation. Peter says that this is the culmination of many centuries of waiting for the fulfilment of God's promise, made known through Old Testament prophets.

First impressions

- What does the coming of the Holy Spirit at Pentecost mean to you? How does it impact your life?
- In what ways does your church building accommodate those with access needs?
- In what ways does your church community welcome all people? What could it do better?

A prayer for others

Thank you, God, for making us all different, all special, and all loved. Thank you for sending your Holy Spirit to help us to love other people. Give us joy as we hope and dream about the future. Amen.

Send a text, or an email, to celebrate somebody at church who is often overlooked.
