2 Samuel 11:1-15

It's not fair

While his troops are away, King David takes a liking to Bathsheba, wife of one of his soldiers, Uriah. Bathsheba becomes pregnant. David tries to cover up what he's done by bringing Uriah home to his wife; but Uriah refuses to be with his wife while others are still fighting. So, David sends Uriah back to the battlefield, instructing his commander to use him where he is most likely to be killed – and he is..

First impressions

What motivates us to want what others have? How can we rein in our desire for more?

Have you ever made a bad choice? What were the consequences? How did you try and rectify it?

How can you make fair and just choices this week?

A sending out prayer

Caring God, we ask you to be with us this week. Open our eyes to see people as you see them, make us a blessing to all who are affected by our choices, whether they are right in front of us or far away. Help us to live by the values of your kingdom, which is fair and just, and to value all people as made in your image. Amen.

REFLECT

Watch some Olympic games this week and look out for the values of excellence, friendship and respect. Look out for those athletes who show particular kindness and fairness to others.
